

The Sound of Tickets Printing

2 MIN READ

The AudienceView team is made up of live event ticketing industry veterans who have spent part of their careers in box offices across the world. Earlier this year, we put a little crowdsourcing to work to bring you 20 of our favorite signs that you've worked in a box office.

With so many people still working from home, we thought we'd revisit the list to see if we can help bring back some normalcy. The seventh item on the list stood out to us immediately – “Heard the sound of thermal tickets printing in your sleep.”

If you miss the sound of tickets printing in the background while you work, we invite you to press play and enjoy the sweet melody of a Stimare printer spitting out tickets for the next hour. Audio Player